W. P. Hall's Lady Performers.

Circus Sensational is Avoided by the Clever Execution of Dangerous Feats.

A large number of the difficult acts seen with the Great W. P. Hall Show are in danger of not being appreciated because of the ease with which they are performed. One of the chief difficulties that confronts a manager of a big circus like the W. P. Hall Show, is the scarcity of acrobatic equestriennes.

The way to the pinnacle of fame in a circus ring is difficult and discouraging. Of the girls who essay the feats of a clever rider not one in a thousand succeed and not one in a hundred of those who succeed ever attain prominence. Prominent in the coterie of equestrienne celebrities with the Great W. P. Hall Show is Miss Kruger, in point of poise, grace, dash and daring agility, her riding simply defies all description. Nothing she does looks difficult, nor appears, indeed, to require effort. She is secure and as much at home in her unstable position on the heaving, bounding back of a galloping horse, as is a society belle on a ball room floor. The cleverness of Miss Kruger deceives the public, and makes it look easy. Any spectator who attempts to imitate the work of this celebrity will soon have such a delusion dispelled from their mind. The same thing may be said of all the hundreds of performers with the Great W. P. Hall Shows. Every act is so cleverly, carefully and quickly executed that the danger of the act is not apparent, and this fact overcomes the sensational tendency which is distasteful to many.

The only fault of the Great W. P. Hall Shows is that it has too much going on at the same time, but the arrangement of the apparatus, paraphernalia and seats is such that every one can see a great deal more and get more satisfaction out of its performance than out of the ordinary show.

The Great W. P. Hall Show will exhibit for one day only in Forest City, Mo., Tuesday, August 15, 1905.

—Robert, son of Frank Kneale, who was so badly hurt recently by being thrown from his horse, is improving nicely. He had several fonce palings in his arm when thrown, and in falling one of them penetrated and tore very badly the fleshy part of the upper arm.

—The Craig reunions are always most enjoyable occasions, and this year's reunion, which occurs August 23, 24, 25, promises to be no exception to the rule. The people up that way are most cordial and hospitable, and take great interest in their annual reunion. The program this year is an extensive one, and made up of splendid talent. The Tarkio band, one of the best musical organizations in this section of the state, will furnish the music. We hope our people will be generous in their attendance.

—On next Wednesday, August 23d, will occur one of those very pleasant outings that always brings joy and gladness to the old, middle-aged and young. It will be the annual picnic of the Forbes Sunday school. It will be held in the Meyer grove, so half mile north of Forbes, next Wednesday, August 23d. One of the most attractive features will be the music which will be furnished by the Oregon band and orchestra. Go, and you'll have a time, sure.

—You'll sure have a good time in the good old town of White Cloud, if you will but throw dull care away, and visit there during their three day's celebration to be held August 18, 19, 20, given under the auspices of the Woodmen and United Workmen lodges, and the business men of that city. A great variety of amusements have been arranged for at great expense which will be furnished absolutely free to all who will attend. The carnival will be held on Main street from the river, west, and $200 in cash prizes will be given. Don't you forget the dates: Friday, Saturday and Sunday, August 18, 19, and 20.

—George S. Stephenson, who had his left hand and wrist severely mangled by a bite from a jack, a few weeks ago, but who was almost well, has suffered a relapse, caused by the extreme hot weather, and re-infecting the hand and arm while at work cutting out a weed patch. He was taken to St. Joseph, Monday of this week, by his physician, Dr. Simmons, and consultation had with the arm and hand were severely inflamed, that there was no danger of blood poisoning setting in, providing he would remain quiet and abstain from work, so he returned to his home Monday evening and is now resting easy and getting along all right.
